Three Juries at Work.

All day yesterday the attorneys in the case of the Citizens State bank against the Union Pacific Railway company and others, argued the jury in the library room at the court house, and at the hour of adjournment the case was given to the jury.

The trial of the case of the state against James Harris occupied the fore part of the day. Harris is charged with stealing a $30 gold watch chain from H. B. Jackson, jeweler store, in company with a man named Fox. This case was given to the jury early in the afternoon. All the regular jurymen were there, but the sheriff and all his deputies were sent out into the high ways to hold men up and make them come in and decide who were criminals and who were not at $2 a day. There was a great excrucious on the part of some of these who were not looking for a job of that kind, but the sheriff cornered enough to make up the even dozen, and the trial of George Anderson and George Wells, charged with robbing the residence of Postmaster I. M. Troyer last winter, was commenced. Anderson is said by the authorities to be the man who served a term in the penitentiary for breaking into the safe of the Metropolitan hotel. He gave his name as John Hill at that time.

Commencement Exercises at the High School Properly Observed.

PERSONNEL OF THE GRADUATING CLASS

Superb Floral Offerings—Subjects of the Various Essays—An Interesting Program Successfully Rendered—No Hope for W. M. Jones.

Last evening the commencement exercises of the High school occurred in the opera house, which was filled to overflowing with the friends of the graduates. Shortly after 8 o'clock the curtain was drawn and a rare combination of feminine and floral beauty, the arrangement of which had evidently been planned with artistic eye, white above the class and at the rear of the stage hung the motto of the class, "Non sibi, sed patrie."

After an invocation by Rev. G. W. Crofts and a musical selection by Hans Albert's orchestra Miss May Batts delivered an oration on "How to Succeed in Life." She held that effort lies at the bottom of success and that the humblest endeavor is worth a thousand aspirations.

Miss Mattie C. Clark followed in a well prepared oration on "Silent Forces." The speaker was a trifle nervous at first, but after the oration she received an encore. Miss Thackeray her subject in a very interesting manner.

Miss Sadie A. Davis' subject was "A Noble Life, Count Leo Tolstoy," and she traced the interesting literary life of this eccentric but gifted man in a discriminating manner.

"Antiquated Maidens" was the subject chosen by Miss Annie de Groat, and she handled this apparently unappealing subject in a very captivating manner, giving the young men in the audience to understand that the members of the class welcomed the prospect of matrimony in a way that led the casual observer to believe that the speaker and her companions were matrimonially provided for.

Miss Helen M. Donahoy read a well written poem on "Masters of the Situation," after which a class sketch (after Coler) was presented by Miss Edna M. Foster, which the trials and tribulations of the school life of the class of '92 were depicted in graphic though antiquated language.

A song entitled "The Little Shaking Quakers," by a number of the pupils of the High School, was quite a novelty and brought down the house. It received an encore. Miss H. G. Gronevitz then delivered an excellent oration on "Man, a Nautilus."

Miss Nellie M. Jones gave her idea as to what a practical education is. She considered the two main points to be looked after by one who wishes a practical education, the building up of a strong moral character and the training of the mind to think accurately and continually.

After a violin solo by Hans Albert, a "Faust Fantasia," there was a discussion on the question, "Should the president be elected by direct popular vote?" the affirmative being argued by Bertie L. Marsh, and the negative by Frances E. Mansfield.

"A Social Question" was Miss Alice Nelson's subject, which she treated in an interesting manner.

An excellent oration was that of Miss Kate M. Shopper on "Crowding In and Crowding Out," and her delivery was very good.

Charles W. Walte, the only gentleman in the class, accompanied by C. C. Jones and H. A. Adams, the Sandwich gentlemen, and when they were passing the Olemacher residence they saw two fellows jump from one of the windows and run away. Seybert called to them, but they did not answer or stop running and realizing that they were burglars he endeavored to shoot them with cold lead. Neither shot took effect as far as could be learned.

Mr. Olemacher and his family were away from home during the evening and when they returned they found the house had been thoroughly ransacked and several articles of small value taken, including the two razors. The police were notified of the burglary by telephone and an officer was dispatched to the scene and made a search of the neighborhood in the hope that one of Seybert's bullets had taken effect and that a wounded burglar might be discovered. The search, however, was vain.

The ladies of Trinity church will serve hot dinner and supper in Masonic temple, Saturday, June 4.

International Cure association rooms are in annex to Grand hotel, 520 First avenue, Council Bluffs, Ia. For cure of alcohol and opium disease.

No Hope for Jones. The friends of W. M. Jones, who have been hoping for his recovery, were shocked yesterday afternoon to learn that he had suffered a sudden relapse and was much worse. All evening his physicians were by his bedside, doing everything that could be done to prolong his life, but at 11 o'clock they stated that there was no hope whatever for his recovery, and that in all probability he would not hold out until morning.

Suing the Inspector. Lamphere & Kennedy have commenced a suit for $50 damages against M. Welker in Justice Hamner's court. The suit is the result of the encounter a South Omaha man had with Inspector Welker a few days ago when Welker poured cold oil over a teef carriage which had been offered for sale at a Broadway meat market. Ed. Motz, S. T. Meade and C. W. Speerman, Welker's bondsmen, are made defendants to the suit. The plaintiff's claim that their meat was all right, and that even if it had not been, the inspector would have had an right to make it any worse than it was. The case will be the first one of the kind since the meat inspector was appointed, and will be of considerable interest. The trial will take place next Friday.

CHAS. KENNEDY, G. N. W. P. Agt. A. T. ELWELL, City Ticket Agent.

ANNOUNCEMENTS. Jefferson, Kiaw & Erlanger's excellent company closes its present engagement at Boyd's theater today by giving two performances—a matinee for ladies and children at 2:30 this afternoon and the regular evening performance at 8. In two weeks, after this company has played several Colorado points, it goes to Hooly's theater, Chicago for a protracted run, and such a summer it played six weeks at Hooly's to very large business.

Charlie Reed and William Collier have long been rated in theatrical circles as among the best of farce comedians, and "Hoss and Hoss" given by these two gentlemen and their company has scored a genuine hit. In Lawyer Charlie Hoss Charlie Reed is said to have struck a happy medium between a strong company of character and specialty people there should be plenty of fun at Boyd's theater during the present engagement. The "Hoss and Hoss" company opens at this popular house tomorrow (Sunday) night and continues for two nights and Wednesday matinee. The sale of seats will open this morning.

George Thatcher and Henry J. Sayers have decided to give Omaha theatergoers another chance to sit in judgment on another new production, which they will tour next season, and to that end have arranged to rehearse and produce their new comedy play, "Cupid's Chariot," here early in July. The piece is based on cycling incidents and the interest of the play centers on a bicycle race, which will take place in full view of the audience in the realism of an outdoor event. The constantly increasing interest taken in this country in cycling rather than in horse racing, Thatcher and Sayers to the belief that large numbers would be attracted by a play in which cycling incidents are an important feature. They have secured the services of "Famous Brothers"—James, Andrew and William—and the sole and exclusive rights to their patent stage bicycle, which is a new and a talented soprano; C. B. Ward, a pleasing tenor singer and comedian, and several other well known and clever people, who will use non-musical means to begin in this city in July. Mr. Julian Jordan, who so successfully staged "Tuxedo," will rehearse the comedy here early in July, with "Tuxedo," while Mr. Sayers will assume personal direction of "Cupid's Chariot."
